

Antonio Cappellini

Graduated in Mechanical Engineering at University of Pisa, his professional career began in 1991 in Piaggio Group where he entered in the R&D department.

In 1999, he entered in VM Motori as Engine Design Responsible. In 2001 he joined Fiat-GM powertrain where took care of the development of various types of engine.

In 2005, he continued his experience in powertrain research and development inside Fiat Powertrain Technologies where he fulfilled different roles with higher responsibilities such as Diesel Engines Design Responsible from 2006 to 2008, Passenger Cars and Light duty Vehicles Diesel Platforms Responsible from 2008 to 2009 and Platform Manager Cursor Engines starting from 2009.

In 2012, he had the responsibility of designing and developing the energy efficiency of all vehicles in Iveco.

In 2013, he rejoined Piaggio Group as Head of Powertrain COC and, starting from November 2016, he is appointed as the Head of 2 Wheeler Product Development.